WEDNESDAY, NOV. 6.

Gov. Beckham will reply to former Durbin's letter in a few days.

Gov. Durbin, of Indiana, is a bigger man than the Constitution of the United States.

In a fight with Boers near Bethel the Britons lost several officers and fifty-four men killed and 100 wounded. Two British guns were also captured.

A college for the higher education of women will probably be founded in this State by the Kentucky Presbyterians. It is reported that the seminary will have an endowment fund of $500,000.

If the Kentucky authorities will agree for old Durbin to select a jury, employ the attorneys on both sides, and name the trial judge, he will send Taylor and Finley to Kentucky.

The monthly statement of the public debt at the close of business on October 31 shows that the debt less cash in the Treasury amounted to $1,022,082,957, a decrease from last month of $9,698,408.

Mr. Jerome Grider, who was the Democratic candidate to represent Clinton and Wayne in the next Legislature, was accidentally shot at Cumberland City last Saturday. He was not dangerously hurt.

It was conceded on the eve of the election in Greater New York that Brooklyn held the key to taxation, and it would not be surprising if Low and the Fusionists are successful against Shepard and Tammany Hall.

While on his way to the Tennessee penitentiary Harry Ryan, who had been sentenced with two other men to two years in prison for robbing a postoffice, confessed that he had been implicated in the robbery of the Manchester, Tenn., bank a few weeks before.

Edward S. Stokes, who shot and killed Jim Fisk, over Josie Mansfield, died in New York Saturday. Stokes at one time was the most prominent man on Wall street, and Fisk was a wealthy railroad man. The killing at the time was the talk of the whole country.

Eight children have died and eleven others are suffering from lockjaw as the result of the use of diptheria antitoxin in St. Louis. Investigations are being made, and so far confirm the belief that the serum contained tetanus toxin. Great alarm is felt by parents whose children have been inoculated.

The jury in the case of the Commonwealth against George Hanlon, charged with murdering officer Richter, held in Louisville, last April, failed to agree. It is said that eleven of the jurors were for hanging and one for acquittal. If newspapers gave correct accounts it was one of the foulest murders ever perpetrated in Louisville.

A writer in Washington says no matter how Hanna, Platt, Quay and others may appear to the public view, these men are bent on Roosevelt's retirement when his term ends. His erraticisms are looked upon as dangerous, and there is no telling at what hour he may provoke an explosion. This winter, when Congress is fairly underway, the campaign of 1904 will begin. The Republican machine leaders will raise the money necessary to defeat Roosevelt should he bend the power of his office for the nomination.

The Election

Don't bother us in the least, we're "down to business" in our store, if you don't think so come in and take a look.

We have just returned from the markets and have loaded our store with the biggest stock you ever saw in Columbia.

We didn't buy quite all the goods we saw, or were we the only buyers paying cash for our goods, but we've "dosed a plenty" and if you will just step in, take a birds eye view of our store you will think "we're the only Pebbles on the Beach."

Dress Goods Dep't.

We show all the latest Autumn styles together with an endless variety of trimmings—too numerous to mention here. Our shirt waist stock is a wonder.

Cloaks.

On this trip we bought a beautiful line of Ladies and Misses Cloaks, Capes, Automobiles—long, medium and short—desirable colors, and qualities, at closing out prices. In this line we can down all competition.

Shoes.

Everybody knows we do the shoe business of Columbia. We've built up, and maintain our immense trade in this departments by our scrupulous regard for values. It is an expression we hear every day "I got the best shoes from you," our years of experience has taught us what the people want. We buy shoes from the best Manufacturers in the country, and you can always depend on getting the latest Leathers and styles from us. We've no room in this stock for "Auction Stuff."

Clothing.

What is the sense in paying $18. to $25 for a so called "Tailor Made" suit when we can fit you just as well give you just as good values from $7.50 to $14.00 per suit? Over Coats from $5.00 to $15.00 and quality and cuts can't be excelled. You want to look at this stock before you place your order, can fit any body from 8 years of age up. Our line of Men's custom-made Odd Pants are late in fabric and cut.

Men's Furnishing Dep't.

We are exclusive agents for the "Fountain Shirts" the styles and make up of which can not be excelled. Have every thing in Men's and Boys Underwear, Neckwear, Collars, Cuffs, Hosiery, Gloves &c. &c.

Hats.

We have everything new in Hats. The John B. Stetsons and Swan Brands in "Columbia" and "Russell" Blocks, also nobly styles for young men.

Miscellaneous.

Every line of goods we carry is full and complete, are offering Bargains in Red Blankets, Comforters, Quilts, Lace Curtains, Carpets, Rugs, Rockers, Parlor Furniture—&c.

Groceries, Hardware.

Tinware, Queensware &c. &c. Come to see us. We are anxious to show you our new stock.

RUSSELL & MURRELL.

THE RESULT.

A Large Vote Polled in Adam County.

And the Republicans Make a Clean Sweep and are Very Jubilant.

DUE TO A STRONG ORGANIZATION.

The Republicans of Adam County entered the fight yesterday morning with a determination such as they had never before exhibited in a county contest.

The colored element of the party was on the square by the time the polls were opened and their ballots were rapidly cast until they had voted out. But few darkies, if any, failed to vote and every white Republican in the two Columbia precincts took an active part in polling the full strength of the party.

By ten o'clock the Democratic candidates were convinced that the day was lost to them, and the party workers became negligent, and from that time on but little interest was manifested.

This overwhelming defeat is not a surprise to many Democrats of the county. For weeks it has been conceded that the Republicans had a strong organization and were working day and night to get out every vote in the county.

Upon the other hand the Democrats appeared to be dilatory, and the party workers exhibited no signs of enthusiasm. It was known that they were up against a majority of three hundred or more, and to overcome that was problem too difficult to fathom.

Every Republican candidate in the county, who had opposition has been elected, the majorities ranging from 250 to 350.

James Garnett, Jr., the Democratic candidate for County Attorney, had no opposition. He received the full strength of his party, and perhaps as many as one hundred Republicans, who are his personal friends, complimented him with their votes.

R. T. McCaffree, the Democratic candidate for Surveyor, was elected without opposition.

While the Democrats of Adam County have been badly snowed under, they are not dismayed and in the future will prove their ability to cope with the strong opposition. It is not our intention in this article, to explain the defeat, but to acknowledge it, neither do we mean to abuse our Republican friends for scoring their greatest victory in this county. They are entitled to all the offices for which they contended; entitled to all the glory and satisfaction that should accompany victory. The offices belong to them and are likewise the responsibility.

We are built to stand most anything even an overwhelming Republican victory and while we find no pleasure in breaking the news of our defeat still it is our mission and below we give the vote of this county.

The following is the vote of the county by precincts:

County Judge—West Columbia, 116; East Columbia, 192; Milltown, 92; Keltner, 80; Gradyville, 100; Elroy, 92; Harmony, 80; Glenville, 163; White Oak, 100; Little Lake, 84; Pellyton, 61; Roley, 105; Cane Valley, 186. Total, 1357.

Loy, Little Lake and White Oak, J. M. Williams. Pellyton and Casey Creek, J. M. Wolford, Columbia, John Eubank. Mr. Jake Feese was elected constable in the Columbia precinct by a majority of 19.

The candidates for the State Senate ran with their respective tickets.

The Republican candidate for Legislature had no opposition. Russell county gave Republican and elected its entire ticket.

Taylor county Democratic by 275 to 800.

Green county Democratic scored a victory and won their entire ticket. Mr. Wade Democratic candidate for Representative from Green and Taylor was elected by a good majority.

Metcalfe county is reported close and at this hour the result is unknown.

No Democratic consolation exists in Casey county and Cumberland. Old Cumberland, has not yet reported, but its probable that the too has gone Republican.

The State of Ohio rolled up a 90,000 Republican majority and New York City elected Seth Low, Republican, Mayor by 90,000.

Mr. Granger, Democratic candidate for Mayor was elected in Louisville, and the Legislature of this State has a good safe Democratic majority.

ADDITIONAL LOCALS.

AT REST.

Thos. Cravens, After a Long Illness, Passes Over the River of Death.

THE END CAME AT 5:30 SATURDAY.

Last Saturday afternoon the subject of this writing became rapidly worse and at the hour above mentioned his soul went to God who gave it. The end was peaceful. The untold suffering which he had experienced for several weeks, seemed to have been removed, and calmly, without a struggle, he passed into the world beyond.

He died at the home of his brother, Mr. M. Cravens, in this city, and his every wish was gratified, and his loving mother, devoted brother and sisters were at his bedside almost constantly, tenderly administering to him every want. The devotion of Mr. M. Cravens was simply beautiful.

For weeks he neglected his business and kept vigil at the bedside of his dear brother. Mr. M. Cravens' wife felt the deepest sympathy and was especially kind to all her administration.

Thos. Cravens was born and reared in Columbia, and was one of the best known men in Adair county, though he had been absent from our midst for the past twelve years. He was the oldest son of Mr. Timoleus and Mary Cravens, and had lived until the 15th of this month, he would have been 83 years old.

For the past twelve years his home was in Texas, and twelve months ago he had begun to fail, and at the earnest solicitation of his brother he reached Columbia last August. His friends hoped that the change might be beneficial, but skill failed to relieve him of a complicated disease, and he peacefully met his God. Several days before he died he told his mother that he had been a great sufferer, but he was ready to go when the summons came.

For the past twenty-five years the deceased engaged in newspaper work, having edited papers at several points in Kentucky and in the State of Texas. He was a man of superior intellect and was a ready and forcible writer.

To the writer the passing of Thomas Cravens was unusually sad. From the time we were two years of age the

AT REST.

Persons who have not stopped at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, Louisville, recently would be surprised to see every perceptible and handsome improvement made in the interior of the building. The recent changes give the building one of the largest corridors in the city, and the fish of this apartment makes it a very inviting place. Every room in the house has been upset and a more cozy home for merchants, professional men, and ladies who are in the city for a few days, could not be found. The old custom of having colored waiters has been discarded by manager Pike Campbell and deserving white girls are now to be seen in the dining room. They are quick and very attentive to guests, and there is not a doubt, but a splendid bit was made when they were employed. Mr. Campbell is a hotel man, who is striving at great expense to please the public, and he deserves a large patronage from this section of the State. His clerks, three in number, are especially polite, making every body feel at home who stop at this elegant house of entertainment. The hotel is convenient to the business portion of the city, and street cars can be taken at the door, carrying you to all important points. If you have not been stopping at the Fifth Avenue, be sure and register there when you again visit Louisville. An "ad" appears this week.

Mr. John Bell, who was a respectable citizen of Adair county, and who resided near Nell, died last Thursday morning about four o'clock. He was about sixty years old and was afflicted with heart trouble. The deceased was son-in-law of Mr. W. L. Walker and the father of Mr. Curt Bell, who is employed in Russell & Murrell's store. He was a popular man in the neighborhood and will be greatly missed from the active walks of life. The surviving members of the family have the sympathy of a large circle of relatives and friends.

Little Virgil, Sutherland, whose death was mentioned some time ago in this paper, was born 22nd of August, 1888 and died Oct. 1st. He was about six years old and was killed by a train passing Oct. 1st. Mr. and Mrs. Sutherland did all within their power to save their little son, but he was carried to the grave. He was a conscientious and a very good boy, and his death was a great loss to the family.

Mr. Kelly Bell, a young man who lives with his father, on the Elijah Murrell farm, met with a very serious accident last Saturday. He was breaking a young horse to work in harness and had him hooked to a buggy. He worked very well for a while, but finally became frightened and ran. He was thrown from the buggy and was considerably bruised about the face and body, and his knee so badly that he will probably be a cripple for life.

AT REST.

Persons who have not stopped at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, Louisville, recently would be surprised to see every perceptible and handsome improvement made in the interior of the building. The recent changes give the building one of the largest corridors in the city, and the fish of this apartment makes it a very inviting place. Every room in the house has been upset and a more cozy home for merchants, professional men, and ladies who are in the city for a few days, could not be found. The old custom of having colored waiters has been discarded by manager Pike Campbell and deserving white girls are now to be seen in the dining room. They are quick and very attentive to guests, and there is not a doubt, but a splendid bit was made when they were employed. Mr. Campbell is a hotel man, who is striving at great expense to please the public, and he deserves a large patronage from this section of the State. FROM TEXAS.

ELWOOD, TEX., Nov. 8, 1902.
Editor of the News:
Perhaps a few items from this section of Texas would be of interest to some of the readers of the News.

Owing to the continued drought crops of all kinds are shorting. A great many real estate transfers are being made, prices ranging from $10 to $75 per acre. This land is being bought up by large land owners. It is only a matter of time until nearly all the best land will be owned by the wealthy class and will not be on the market at any price.

Following is the present prices of farm products: Cotton, 8c.; cotton seed, $10 per ton; corn, 50c. bushel; oats, 40c.; hay, $10 per ton. Stock of all classes very high.

What has become of the Inroad and Oresaboro comedians? If they only knew—wherever they may be—how much their letters were appreciated they would write more frequently.

The date of the election is drawing near, there being more interest this Fall, politically, than usual, owing to there being three tickets in the first time. The Republicans for the first time have a full ticket. Of course they don't hope to elect their ticket. It is only done that they may ascertain their strength and hold the party together.

This section of Texas seems to be on the eve of great prosperity. Representatives of Eastern capitalists are here mapping out various electric railway routes. While we already have five different railroads this, Fannin, county, we are very much in need of these inter-urban electric roads.

Respectfully,
W. F. KERRY.

FRUITS AND FLOWERS.

In planting the orchard care should be taken to allow each tree plenty of room.

A layer of charcoal in the bottom of a flower bed is very beneficial in keeping the soil fresh.

In plowing in the orchard allow furrows turn the furrow toward the tree, and be careful not to injure fibrous roots.

The life of an apple tree is often shortened because it grows in a poor, exhausted soil or one not properly drained.

When ill or ailing, handle the flowers little or wear gloves. Delicate plants are sensitive to human magnetism, good or bad.

The roots of a strawberry often reach out five feet from the main stem, hence the plants should not be set too thickly.

An apple or cherry tree is much more valuable if it roots out low. Trim from the top, as this will cause the lower branches to grow out.

Land that has been too rough for plowing may yet be sufficiently fertile to grow fruit trees and is better than land that has been exhausted by cropping.

GADDERY.

Oliver Willis removed his family to this place last week.

H. B. McClellan, of Fairplay, has a very sick child at this writing.

The family of J. T. Taylor started for Missouri last Sunday where they will make their future home. I wish them great success.

Wm. Jones and Mary Chestnut were married in marriage one day last week.

W. H. Young, this place, is said to have the largest and best crop of tobacco in Adams county.

G. M. Young attended the Stotts and Taylor wedding last Wednesday at Glenville.

J. L. Darnell bought a horse from George Smith last week for $1.50 and he is hauling 235 staves to Columbia every day with the animal.

Rev. Kirby, of the Christian Church, began a series of meetings at this place last Wednesday night.

Wm. Loy, of Sparkville, was in our midst one day last week.

SOME OF THE SCRAPES.

A New York woman has been married seven times.

Chicago woman has just discovered that dew baths are good for the complexion.

It is reported that J. Pierpont Morgan has bought the manuscript of Ruskin's "Seven Lamps of Architecture" for $25,000.

Henry M. Plager has had built in his new home, at Palm Beach, Fla., the largest pipe organ ever placed in a private home in this country.

"He calls the baby 'Coffee.' " "What a name! What does he call it that for?" "Because it keeps him awake at night."—Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.

"Johnson writes that he's just killed the hero in his new novel." "Well, he needs't worry over that—any jury will acquit him."—Atlanta Constitution.

Alexander the Great used his sword against woman rather than for them and one of his favorite pastimes was beating his wives with the flat of his steel blade.

"John," said the retired lawyer to his coachman, "are the horses trying to run away?" "They be, sir!" "Then drive into something cheap."—Electrical Review.

One of the most magnificent ballrooms in the United Kingdom is in Lord Inverness's house, in Dublin. It is 70 feet long and 40 feet wide, and the floor has a delightful "springiness."

Harlebury castle, England, the oldest Episcopal residence in the world, is to be sold, being too costly for a bishop without private means to maintain. The place may be purchased for diocesan work.

Japan's latest curiosity is a baby boy, at the age of 10 months, weighs nearly four stone, and is over three feet in stature. His parents have taken him to Tokio to have him educated by a wrestler.

An Englishman has invented a machine for receiving and registering theater tickets, which when once inserted, can not be abstracted. This invention will shortly be given a trial at some of the leading London theaters.

One of the largest collections of charms in Europe is owned by Queen Alexandra. It consists mainly of tiny elephants in malachite, jade, jasper, sapphire and turquoise, and humming birds and swallows, bees and beetles, which are real works of art.

Two printed forms valued at one farthing were lost recently at Baku, on the Transcaucasian railway, and the station master had telegrams sent to every station in the Russian empire to ask if they had been seen anywhere. The company has since had to pay telegraph charges amounting to nearly $10,000, and the overzealous officials is now out of employment.

An official investigation proves that 72 per cent of all the employees of the state in Turkey—that is, the officers and men of the army and navy, the gendarmes and police force, and all members of all branches of the civil service—never receive more than half of the salaries and wages due them. Twenty-six per cent obtain from seven to ten months' salary in the year, and the remaining two per cent are happy in getting their full due.

Charles Hawley, the English actor, was recently playing in a town in the north of England. Certain radio-making effects were introduced to an old Scotchman known as "Mac," who produced the illusion by rattling some peas in a tin. On the first night the peas were not rattled with sufficient vigor and Hawley rushed over to the stage hand, exclaiming: "Here, Mac, it's a rainstorm we want, not a Scotch mist. Louder, confound you, louder!"

How brief and fitting a thing is summer! How rapidly the golden days have passed! A few radiant sunsets; a few long, bright days, treading on each other's heels in rapid succession; a few storms breaking in upon the calm; a few straits through the deep woods or upon the sounding shore, where, alone with God, the heart sends up its sincerest adoration; a few quiet reveries, gazing up into the clear depths of the skies, or pouring over teapots of some favorite book or paper; a few greetings and good-byes with coming and departing friends; a few hours each day in thinking and toiling for the interest of our readers and in personal correspondence; a few cloud shadows of disappointment—and the summer is gone. Whether there were more shadow than a slight, whether there were more smiles than tears, matters not. How have these influences and experiences affected our character and relation with God? This alone is all-important.

AFTER FORTY YEARS.

This strange story was telegraphed from this place to Sunday's Cincinnati Enquirer: "In John Morgan's first fight at Lebanon, in 1862, Jackson Collins, a Federal soldier, and a Confederate, a big six-footer, unexpectedly ran upon each other. A duel with revolvers at close range followed, and the Confederates toppled over, his pistol falling from his grasp as he sank. Collins fought on through the war, believing that he had killed his man. On this account he has always been morose, and has frequently said that he would give all his earthly possessions, which are considerable, if he could blot the occurrence from memory. Last Wednesday Collins was in the southern end of Washington county buying cattle and stopped at the home of Clark Epton, a trader and farmer, to look at some stock. Epton was out on the farm, and Collins took a seat to await his return. When Epton entered the room Collins arose, turned pale and came near fainting. He then grabbed Epton and began to embrace him and weeping, saying, 'You are the man that I thought I had slain at Lebanon.' Explanations followed, and, sure enough, Epton proved to be the Confederate whom Collins thought he had killed 40 years ago. Epton told him that it was a close call. He opened his shirt and showed him the scars of the wounds, one of the balls having entered near the right nipple and passed through the body. The other is still in him. He hovered for months between life and death, but finally pulled through, though the surgeon said there was no possible chance for him. The two men had enlisted in the respective armies from Washington county, and since the war he had lived within 30 miles of each other, but happened not to meet until Wednesday. It is said that Collins' health and moods have wonderfully changed for the better since learning that the man whom he supposed he had killed is in the land of the living.—Harrodsburg Herald.

CAN YOU TELL.

It is the boast of Kentucky that her wealthiest class of citizens live in the country; that many of her farmers are college graduates, and that in their homes can be found libraries that would do credit to professionals. Can it be that in the pursuit of "book learning" we have neglected that "book" which is just as essential knowledge that can be picked up around us? Could you answer these questions:

Why does a horse eat grass backward and a cow forward?

Why does a hop vine wind one way and a bean vine the other?

Where should a chimney be the larger, at the top or bottom?

You can any day see a white horse, but did you ever see a white colt?

How many different kind of trees grow in your neighborhood and what are they good for?

Can you tell why a horse, when tied with a rope, always unravels it, while a cow always twists it into a kinky knot?

GIRLS DON'T.

Twist your face in a way to produce wrinkles.

Press me upon the generosity of your men friends.

Assume that your way is sure to be always successful.

Carry your train so as to make it appear like a corkscrew.

Think that continual chattering makes you appear entertaining.

Thump on the piano keys as if you had a spite against them.

Tell your girl friends the business confidences given you by men.

Talk to men as if you knew the difference in taste of the various wines.

Gush over a man simply to cause other girls to think you own him.

Think it shows good breeding to order expensive dishes and then only mince over them.

Marriage is the most sacred union on earth. It is the union of one man and one woman for life whose supreme duties are to each other and to God.

BUBBLES.

Fall prices don't always fall. As open timepieces—the sun dial. The musical composer's mind goes all to pieces.

Row-legged men seem to follow their natural bent.

The truth will out, for thus it has its sayings.

The painter dresses a door, but he doesn't provide its close.

A drinking song ought to sparkle with overflowing measures.

If some men asked their friends to "Have something," they'd probably have a fit.

What did raw recruits like to hear his other say, "Well done."

"How can I keep cool," said the cucumber, "when I'm in such a pickle?" Even after he completes a book, the novelist doesn't know how it will turn out.

There is something sadly lacking in a "pathetic" play that does not produce tears.

Umbrella thieves have a way of taking things by storm.

In donning his armor, the knight of old put on a bold front.

The cat is mad when it has its back up, but it's different with a camel.

A woman may not count her birthdays, but she can not say that they do her count.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Does water produce fat? No, of course not. Water contains none of the elements from which fat is produced.

There is a notion abroad that people who drink water are liable to get fat. In consequence of this notion a great many people who think themselves too fat are denying themselves water and other fluids. A great many other people who think they are not fat enough are swelling down water, hoping to get fatter. This is all bosh. Perfectly absurd. There are people who will get fat in spite of denying themselves water. But as far as water has any effect in the production or elimination of fat, its effect is to make people leaner.

A disease has broken out among the cats in the neighborhood of Hagan in Ohio county, which is believed to be anthrax. Eleven heads have died on the farms, and many more have been attacked. The farmers are afraid to touch the carcasses and they are allowed to lie where they die.

Cary Mitchell, a farmer of Clark county, aged 61 years, committed suicide by shooting himself in the breast. His mind had been unbalanced for some time.

John A. Walton, for six years a soldier in the regular army, committed suicide at Bowling Green by swallowing twenty grains of strychnine.
